1 (Case called)

2 THE DEPUTY CLERK: Will the parties please identify 3 themselves for the record?

4 MS. NICOLAS: Good afternoon, your Honor. Ashley
5 Nicolas and Madison Smyser for the government.

6 THE COURT: Good afternoon.

7 MS. BAHARANYI: Good afternoon, your Honor. Zawadi
8 Baharanyi with the Federal Defenders. I am here on behalf of 9 Lucha El, who is being brought out now.

10 THE COURT: Good afternoon.

11 So, we are here for sentencing. The first item is the 12 calculation of the guidelines, even though I will say, as I now 13 say at all sentences, that the federal sentencing guidelines 14 are completely irrational and will have no bearing on my 15 sentence. This is just another case where that is 16 demonstrated.

17 There is all this controversy, which we will get to in 18 a moment, of how many guns this defendant was involved with and 19 if it's three guns he gets two extra points, if it is eight
20 guns he gets four extra points. I wonder how the brilliant 21 members of the Sentencing Commission came up with that. Why 22 wasn't it one point? Why wasn't it seven points? Why wasn't 23 it three points? This is all hocus-pocus, masquerading as 24 rationality.

25 So the guidelines are of no concern to me. What, of

0185e1S

1 course, is of concern to me, is the serious crime that was 2 committed and we will get to that later on. But, since I have 3 to calculate the guidelines, the defense objects to the 4 government and the probation office's calculation which was a 5 total offense level of 20 and a Criminal History Category of I,
6 and therefore a guideline range of 33 to 41 months, a sentence
7 higher than any I am remotely contemplating in this case but 8 the defense objects to that calculation on two different 9 grounds.

10 First, the defense says that the four-level
11 enhancement for an offense involving 8 to 24 firearms was not 12 resolved by the jury -- I agree with that -- and is not 13 supported by the evidence and I am not so sure I agree with 14 that second part of the argument; and then the defense also 15 says that the guideline that says there should be another 16 four-level enhancement for the provision that says the 17 defendant used or possessed a firearm or ammunition in 18 connection with another felony offense really should not be 19 invoked on the other felony offense is simply, if you will, the 20 state parallel to the federal offense.

21 So, let me hear first from the government on those 22 objections and then I will turn to the defense.

23 MS. NICOLAS: Thank you, your Honor.

24 I will start with the first which is under 25 2K2.1(b)(1), which is the number of guns involved in the

0185e1S

1 offense. I think your Honor already alluded to kind of the 2 touchpoint of the government's argument here, what was argued
3 before the jury is not the question. It is actually quite a 4 low standard, it is what is reasonably foreseeable to the 5 defendant as a natural consequence of the unlawful agreement 6 proven by a preponderance.

7 The government laid out, on page 7 of its sentencing
8 submission, while constraining ourselves only to the four trips
9 in which the defendant and Mr. Vereen, the straw purchaser, 10 were located together, that that results in 17 firearms right 11 there, if we only constrain ourselves to those four trips.
12 That is setting aside the firearms that are outside that time 13 span. That also disregards the Glock, which is the additional 14 firearm that the defendant was arrested with, taking us to 18.
15 I think, based on the cell site information which was 16 Government Exhibit 901, was the presentation that supported
17 Mr. Peterson's testimony at trial, combined with the wire 18 transfer information both for the defendant and the 19 co-conspirator with whom he was arrested in Massachusetts, 20 establish by a preponderance that at least 18 firearms were 21 reasonably foreseeable to the defendant as a natural 22 consequence of the criminal agreement.

23 I am happy to stop there.

24 THE COURT: Why don't you stop there and let's hear 25 from defense counsel.

0185e1S

1 MS. BAHARANYI: Your Honor, we do agree with the 2 government that the question is about reasonable
3 foreseeability. There is a lot of speculation that is going 4 into the government's calculation that should be highlighted.

5 First, they've at least limited now from 24 to 17.
6 Kudos to them for recognizing that the number 24 was also quite 7 speculative. But if we look at the four trips, what we know 8 from these trips is that there was a cell tower that 9 Mr. Vereen's phone pinged off of that Lucha El's phone also 10 pinged off of. We know that there were other cell towers that 11 Mr. Vereen's phone pinged off of that weren't anywhere in the 12 vicinity of Lucha El. That includes cell towers in upstate New 13 York, in New Jersey, in different parts of the Bronx. This was 14 all part of our cross-examination with Mr. Peterson, the expert 15 witness called by the government.

16 What that tells us is that while there were these 17 interactions after certain firearm purchases between Mr. Vereen 18 and between Lucha, we cannot glean from these interactions that 19 all of the firearms that were purchased during this time frame 20 were destined to Lucha El's hands or individuals that were 21 known to him.

22 I think it might be helpful to think of this in the 23 context, perhaps an unsavory context of someone who is dealing 24 drugs. Someone who is dealing drugs to one purchaser, one
25 person who is buying it. That person who is buying from them

0185e1S

1 in the moment may have no sense of how many other drugs the 2 person they're buying from is dealing. They have no sense of 3 the overall conspiracy. And what the government hasn't given 4 your Honor today or even at trial is any reason to fill in the 5 gaps in the way that they've proposed. There are no
6 communications, text messages, wiretappings that would show
7 that Lucha El was aware of the grand scope of Mr. Vereen's 8 firearm dealings, and even the four dates that we have here, 9 for each of the wire transfers that the government has 10 highlighted, it certainly would not support the suggestion that 11 18 guns were purchased from about $1,000 worth of money
12 transferred. That just does not compute.

13 So, your Honor, I do think while the government, 14 again, kudos to them, has lowered their number, in reality what 15 we are dealing with is just truly a lack of information and 16 information they cannot provide by a preponderance of the 17 evidence to show that the number was anything from 2, 3, 10, 11
18 firearms. They just don't have the ability to prove that and 19 it is their burden.

20 THE COURT: Before I hear from the government let me 21 make sure. Are you asking for a Fatico hearing on this or are 22 you saying I can decide on the materials that both sides have 23 presented, but of course you interpret that as materials that 24 do not sufficiently support the government's burden.

25 MS. BAHARANYI: It is the latter, your Honor.

0185e1S

1 THE COURT: Same question to the government. Are you
2 seeking a Fatico hearing?

3 MS. NICOLAS: We are not, your Honor.

4 THE COURT: OK. So go ahead.

5 MS. NICOLAS: Your Honor, I think we need to parse out 6 what defense counsel just said because I think there was some 7 mixing of standards.

8 The question is not whether or not 18 firearms ended 9 up in this defendant's hands. The question is actually if we 10 get past the threshold of eight as part of a foreseeable 11 result, a natural consequence of the unlawful agreement in 12 which the defendant participated, we are talking about the 13 defendant with whom he was arrested in Massachusetts with 14 another person who sent money to Mr. Vereen and it is not just 15 the stand-alone cell site information, it is also the pattern 16 of communications, cell site information, gun purchases and 17 money transfers, and certainly this is not in evidence but the 18 government's closing slides laid that out quite clearly, 19 putting together all of that evidence -- the cell site, the 20 toll records.

21 THE COURT: On this first point I agree with the 22 government. I think the government's position is based on a 23 number of circumstantial inferences but, of course, those are 24 totally permissible to be drawn and the burden is only 25 preponderance and I think they have established that he

0185e1S

1 reasonably foresaw that eight or more guns would be involved.

2 Let's now turn to the other enhancement. The 3 government's position, while it may comport with the facial 4 language of the guideline and therefore satisfy the textualness
5 of the Supreme Court, seems kind of crazy. It means that every 6 single time there is a parallel state statute, which is going 7 to be true in the many, many, many states, you are just going 8 to have an automatic enhancement. That sounds awfully like 9 double punishment to me.

10 MS. NICOLAS: Your Honor, I actually don't think that 11 is the relevant question in this case where the defendant was 12 charged with an offense relating to how he obtained the guns.
13 And I understand and acknowledge that it is a nuanced 14 difference, but any potential state case in New York related to 15 the firearm would be a possession offense, but even here it is 16 one step further in that there were other offenses, even if we 17 were to argue, which we are not, that that is the point of the 18 statute, the two possession enhancements can't exist together.
19 Here we have a body armor offense, we have an ammunition 20 offense, we have an offense relating to extended magazines, all 21 of which he was charged with in Massachusetts. That's not even 22 the question. The question is, is there another offense, 23 another felony offense that the defendant has committed in 24 connection with his acquisition of a firearm under which he was 25 convicted in the federal courts.

0185e1S

1 THE COURT: Well, one of the problems, many problems I
2 have with the guidelines but I don't want to spend the next 3 five hours going through them all, is very little legislative 4 history. So, one would have thought that this might have been 5 intended to deal with situations where one obtained a gun
6 illegally in order to carry out a bank robbery or a violent 7 assault or something like that and none of the situations you
8 are positing are really like that. It is more like, yes, 9 Massachusetts has a bunch of those, as does New York, a bunch
10 of laws relating to obtaining handling, so forth, illegal guns, 11 and so it is almost an automatic that in every case involving 12 the federal gun laws there is going to be the enhancement you 13 are referring to. I get your point that went further here that 14 would narrow my hypothetical but I wonder if it is still the 15 same basic ball of wax. But, let me hear from defense counsel.

16 MS. BAHARANYI: Your Honor, that gets at exactly what 17 our issue is with this enhancement and I think the Court 18 actually does have power not to apply it here.

19 THE COURT: I have the power not to consider the 20 guidelines at all and I am going to invoke that power.

21 MS. BAHARANYI: Absolutely.

22 THE COURT: Without any question.

23 MS. BAHARANYI: I don't mean at all to limit, 24 especially given the direction we hope the Court goes and I
25 don't mean to limit the Court's discretion there but, again,

0185e1S

1 the idea, if we get to the heart of what this enhancement is 2 supposed to be addressing is exactly that, firearms that are 3 possessed in connection with this other felony, conduct or 4 activity, firearm possessed with bank fraud or kidnapping.
5 Something that enhances the dangerousness of this other 6 felonious conduct. Here, the other --

7 THE COURT: Since there is no legislative history
8 maybe what I should do is have a Fatico hearing involving all 9 the members of the Sentencing Commission at the time they 10 enacted this, we could question them. Maybe we won't do that.

11 MS. BAHARANYI: That sounds potentially painful, your 12 Honor.

13 I think here what the Court should also focus on is 14 this guidance from the guidelines in the commentary that the 15 possession of a firearm in connection with the felony, another 16 felony offense, needs to be a firearm that's facilitating or 17 somehow making easier the commission of this other felony
18 offense, and simply possessing a firearm does not make easier
19 the possession of a firearm. That's where I believe the Court 20 has room to certainly not apply the enhancement in this case.
21 It certainly is illogical and the guidelines, the commentary of 22 the guidelines at least does give us some area or room not to 23 apply it.

24 I would also note the government, in its letter,
25 mentioned that there are other felony offenses beyond

0185e1S

1 possession of a firearm that were happening here. Those felony 2 offenses, again, all relate to possession of ammunition or 3 other firearms or body armor which, again, if anything, body
4 armor potentially could facilitate the carrying of a firearm
5 but I don't think that goes in the reverse direction here, not 6 logically.

7 THE COURT: Well, I'm going to cut this short only 8 because, as I said perhaps too often now, it is all an 9 irrelevancy to my sentence in any event, but I agree with 10 defense counsel. I think I have some room so I'm going to deny 11 that enhancement, which means that the total offense level is 12 16, the Criminal History is I, and the guideline range is 21 to 13 27 months.

14 Now let's talk about what is of importance to the 15 Court which is the factors under Section 3553(a) of Title 18, a 16 statute I am very fond of because I think it sets forth all the 17 relevant factors to any Judge's sentencing. And before I hear 18 from defense counsel and from government counsel and then from 19 the defendant, if he wishes to be heard, let me ask the 20 government what, to me, is an important question, which is 21 where do you rank this defendant in comparison with Mr. Vereen.

22 MS. NICOLAS: It is a difficult question, your Honor, 23 because their conduct is quite different from one another. As 24 it relates to the offense itself, on its face, I certainly 25 think that this defendant maybe is a little less culpable in

0185e1S

1 terms of he is not necessarily in the gun store at every 2 transaction but in other ways that Mr. Vereen presented
3 mitigating factors: His employment, his service record, 4 otherwise lack of criminal history, general showing of remorse.
5 I don't necessarily think we have that with this defendant so,
6 in some senses, this defendant almost has a more aggravating
7 position which I will talk about more, but I do think it is a 8 difficult one-to-one comparison.

9 THE COURT: OK. That's fair enough. Now let me hear 10 on all issues first from defense counsel, then from government 11 counsel and then from the defendant, if he wishes to be heard.

12 MS. BAHARANYI: Thank you, your Honor.

13 Before I begin, I do want to take a moment to 14 introduce some of the many family members and community members 15 who are here in support of Lucha.

16 THE COURT: Yes. And I should mention I have received 17 and carefully read some very excellent letters on his behalf 18 from friends and family members.

19 MS. BAHARANYI: And of those, his brother Israel 20 Perez, who wrote a letter to the Court, is present. His 21 mother, Maria Gonzalez, is also present who also wrote a letter 22 to the Court, as is Jacqueline Jimenez and Sheryl Jones or 23 "CJ", as she is affectionately known in the community.

24 Your Honor, I do want to also note that at the end of 25 my presentation, as I included in my sentencing submission, I

0185e1S

1 request the opportunity for Ms. Jimenez -- Jackie Jimenez, who 2 is here, to be able to share a bit more on Lucha El's specific 3 connection to his community and why his absence or the loss of 4 him in the community has been a hardship that extends beyond 5 his family.

6 THE COURT: I'm happy to hear, as long as it is a 7 reasonably brief presentation.

8 MS. BAHARANYI: Absolutely, your Honor.

9 Every single person behind me, your Honor, is here
10 because they know who Lucha El Libertard truly is. They know 11 his heart, they know his actions, they know that he is not the 12 radical, violent, government-hating militia member that the 13 government has made him out to be, not just I anticipate at 14 today's sentencing, but at trial.

15 After our own lengthy amount of time with Lucha El 16 during trial and preparation, we have come to know the same as 17 well. He is someone who cares deeply for his community, for 18 his family. He is someone who loves infinitely, somehow, 19 despite challenging circumstances that have existed since his 20 childbirth. But we are obviously here because he is also 21 someone who made a mistake. The Court knows that in 2020 and 22 2021 there were decisions that Lucha El made in the middle of a 23 global health pandemic, in the middle of time that brought 24 about extreme uncertainty and lack of security to many, but 25 decisions that led him here.

0185e1S

1 For Lucha El, he is from -- well, grew up for decades
2 in a community in Norwood Bronx around Perry Avenue, and in 3 COVID he saw that community suffering in ways that Officer
4 Smalls took to the stand and described: Gang violence, 5 robberies, rampant shootings, just truly a chaotic almost 6 desperate environment that was brought on by the desperation of 7 an unprecedented pandemic, and at that time Lucha El was a 8 father to a 3-year-old, Hayden, someone who is his child who is 9 truly his love and his joy, and he felt the desire and the need 10 to be a protector. He felt the desire and need to be able to 11 protect him as he has done for so many family members since he 12 was a child. And that happened to coincide with him learning
13 about the Moors, that happened to coincide with him learning 14 about the Second Amendment, and he developed views on what the 15 Second Amendment meant to him.

16 He made the decision, your Honor, to carry a firearm
17 in 2021. The Court now is very well aware of the circumstances
18 of him carrying that firearm. On two occasions, in the Bronx 19 and in Massachusetts, he was arrested in possession of 20 firearms, and immediately after his Massachusetts arrest he 21 went to jail. That's critical here. He spent eight months in 22 custody away from his son, eight months in custody away from 23 his family in a jail far off in Massachusetts that was, itself, 24 suffering from the rampant -- the onslaught of COVID-19. This 25 was a time of immense suffering but also of immense reflection.

0185e1S

1 Eight months -- eight months and three weeks specifically, your 2 Honor, was punishing and was more than sufficient punishment.
3 And after that time he has not carried a gun since. So, eight
4 months and three weeks in jail was exactly the course
5 correction that I think Courts try to impose in cases like this 6 often.

7 THE COURT: I'm not sure that I have any reason to 8 believe he really changed his mind. We have some evidence that 9 he retained his absurd views of what the law permitted and 10 didn't permit.

11 MS. BAHARANYI: Your Honor, I'm quite happy you raised 12 that because I think that has been so much of the focus of our 13 time in this courtroom, is what he believes, what he feels, 14 what his views are on the law, and we have lost focus on his 15 ability to actually abide by the law.

16 Many Courts, I think, think of sometimes jail as being 17 an opportunity for a taste of punishment, something to course 18 correct. And I think in his case he got more than a taste, he 19 got, quite frankly, a meal, because he got punishment during 20 the darkest time to be incarcerated and that, in fact, changed 21 his actions.

22 His views, his opinions, what he believes the Second 23 Amendment means to others, what he believes the Second 24 Amendment should be or could be, does not change the fact that 25 he is able to abide by the law as it is and we saw that. We

0185e1S

1 saw that after eight months and three weeks in jail, that he 2 came back into the community, no more contact, no more police 3 contact, no more firearms, no more incidents of misconduct in 4 the community. He focused in on supporting those who he loves, 5 those who have stood by him from day one. He focused in on his 6 son, on his son Hayden. He focused in on what matters most.
7 The community that he was concerned about, he dedicated his 8 time to that community, he did not dedicate his time to 9 carrying around firearms or facilitating others carrying 10 firearms.

11 I guess what I am trying to convey to the Court is 12 that that time worked, and yet that time was not all that he 13 has now faced. So beyond those nearly nine months in custody, 14 he has now spent another four months at the MDC Brooklyn.

15 THE COURT: Yes. Of course, he gets credit for that 16 on any sentence I impose.

17 MS. BAHARANYI: He gets credit for that time. He 18 doesn't technically get any credit for the Massachusetts time
19 but, again, this is all happening -- the arrest occurs in 2021
20 and all of this has happened after, so it is not as though he 21 was arrested and decided again to carry another firearm after 22 these eight months. No. The arrest happened, his 23 incarceration happened, his conduct has been changed. This 24 venue, the criminal justice system, is not here to change 25 people's opinions on what the law should be, that's not what we

0185e1S

1 are doing here. It is here to ensure that people can abide by 2 the law and can go out into the world and live in that world
3 safely and Lucha El has done that. I think the Court -- not I 4 think, I know the Court has certainly been inundated with his 5 views and opinions on the law in ways that weren't always 6 welcome and he addressed that in his letter to the Court.

7 THE COURT: I have long since forgotten and put out of 8 my mind his thoughts in that regard.

9 MS. BAHARANYI: But during his time on pretrial
10 release, despite those communications, he was in fact 11 compliant. He was someone who was in his home during his 12 curfew as he was required to do, he worked odd jobs in the 13 community to support different community members including a 14 neighbor of his who was renovating his home. He spent eight 15 months outside showing the Court that he is able to, again, be 16 in the community under the supervision without committing 17 crimes, without carrying firearms, without posing a danger.

18 I think what has been lost in this case is something 19 that we truly must focus on here, the conduct and the actions
20 and not his views or opinions because that is certainly not 21 what this space is designed to change.

22 THE COURT: I totally agree that he should not, and I
23 don't think his sentence should reflect in any way his opinions
24 of the law, misguided though they may be, but I think your more 25 fundamental point, which I think you agree with is if he has

0185e1S

1 got a bunch of silly opinions, well, sobeit, he shouldn't be 2 punished for that. But, of course, I haven't heard much though 3 from you about the fact that at the very time when, as you say, 4 because of the pandemic there was terrible situations in his 5 community, what did he do? I'm not talking about opinions now, 6 I am talking about what he did. He went out and got -- 7 illegally -- some guns, for whatever purpose. So he 8 contributed to that violent atmosphere that you have so well 9 described.

10 MS. BAHARANYI: Lucha was not engaging in any violence 11 in the community and --

12 THE COURT: You thought he got a gun not to use it?

13 MS. BAHARANYI: Your Honor, as many in this country 14 do. He got a gun for protection. He got it illegally and that 15 is why we are here, but he did not get a gun to commit --

16 THE COURT: By which you mean that if he had felt 17 someone was threatening him or his child he would have used the 18 gun.

19 MS. BAHARANYI: Your Honor, as many people do, he got 20 a gun for his own sense of security and protection, not to go 21 out and assault, harass.

22 THE COURT: I don't understand that argument. Maybe I 23 am missing something here.

24 MS. BAHARANYI: It is the basis of the Second 25 Amendment.

0185e1S

1 THE COURT: So you go out, you are confronted with a 2 violent situation on your account, you fear for the safety of 3 yourself or others close to you, and you then go out and 4 illegally get a gun and it is not for the purpose of, if 5 threatened, you will resort to it, it is just so you can keep 6 it in your basement and feel a better sense of security? That 7 doesn't make much sense to me.

8 MS. BAHARANYI: Your Honor, I think it is completely 9 appropriate and fair to have very different views on how the 10 Second Amendment functions in practice and how people feel.

11 THE COURT: I'm not talking about the Second 12 Amendment. He can hold whatever it is he wants with the Second 13 Amendment. I'm talking about what is the logical inference on 14 your account of why he got a gun. On your account he got it so 15 he could protect either himself or those he loved and how would 16 that work if he didn't use it?

17 MS. BAHARANYI: Your Honor, again, we understand why 18 we are here. He received it in a way he should not have but he 19 did not receive it with the intent of going out and committing 20 acts of violence. He received it with the idea that this is a 21 part of how he -- self-defense, how one protects themselves if 22 violence is brought on to them.

23 THE COURT: In which case he would use it.

24 MS. BAHARANYI: Your Honor, again --

25 THE COURT: I agree that's a hypothetical but you are

0185e1S

1 asking me to credit your hypothetical about what his intentions
2 were and I am just trying to figure out that the extent it is 3 relevant at all, which it may not be.

4 MS. BAHARANYI: His intentions weren't to violate the 5 law and I think even the law creates protections for those who 6 defend themselves, either with a firearm or with their fists.
7 There are exceptions in the law.

8 THE COURT: Quite limited. Quite limited.

9 MS. BAHARANYI: Quite limited, right; but again
10 limited, but they exist and they exist for a reason.

11 THE COURT: All right.

12 MS. BAHARANYI: I think what is important to remember 13 here is this is a person who has no violent history, has never 14 assaulted, attacked, shot, done anything of violence to another 15 individual, and in 2020 and 2021 he had no intention nor did he 16 do violence to other individuals.

17 THE COURT: What was him going up to Massachusetts?

18 MS. BAHARANYI: That was intended as a, I guess, a 19 practice on how to safely use firearms and camping in Maine on 20 private land that the leader of that group had organized.

21 THE COURT: I'm never going to use this firearm, I 22 just want it for protection, but I better figure out how I can 23 go with my friends and learn how to use it. Is that what you 24 are saying?

25 MS. BAHARANYI: I feel much safer in this world if

0185e1S

1 people, who possess firearms legally, do actually know how to 2 use them.

3 THE COURT: OK.

4 MS. BAHARANYI: And I think that's why gun ranges
5 exist, your Honor. But I think we are stepping away from what 6 I do think is kind of the most critical and compelling,
7 mitigating factor behind Lucha and his story.

8 The government mentioned that there are all of these 9 aggravating factors and they exist but glossed over the 10 importance that Lucha has to his community and the community 11 that he was in fact still giving back to in 2020 and 2021. The 12 different ways he was giving to that community have been 13 outlined in some of the letters of support that we gave to the 14 Court but I don't think necessarily I'm the best speaker on 15 that as someone who is not from that same community, which is 16 why I have asked Ms. Jimenez, someone who has known Lucha El 17 for two decades at this point.

18 THE COURT: I am more than happy to hear from her and 19 will do that now, but I want to just raise one thing for you 20 before we do that. So, I am frequently confronted with the 21 argument: Judge, Mr. Hypothetical defendant -- I'm not talking 22 about this defendant but a defendant just in general -- Judge, 23 he is a good family man, has been wonderful to his children, 24 they need him, his neighbors speak highly of him, and therefore 25 you should, in effect, give him a break. And what I always

0185e1S

1 wonder when I hear that argument is who brought this on his 2 neighbors? Who deprived them of his help, of his love, of his 3 contribution? It was he, when he decided to commit a crime.
4 They are his victims in that sense. Now, I don't mean to 5 overstate it but I do think that it is a little ironic that in 6 case after case I'm told, Oh, Judge, he loves his family and we 7 can show how deeply he has loved them. If he really, really 8 loved his family, why would he go out and commit a crime and 9 deprive them of his help?

10 MS. BAHARANYI: Your Honor, I think from the letters 11 of support there is no question that he loves his family and 12 his community. He is also someone that the Court has 13 recognized has made a mistake and those two things just aren't 14 mutually exclusive. What Lucha El means to his community is 15 something that we want to speak more to the Court about but the 16 reason why we want to make sure your Honor understands this is 17 because I'm asking for him to go back to the community after he 18 has already faced serious punishment for his conduct. So this 19 isn't a request to have him go back and time-served because he 20 hasn't spent any time in jail. No. He has spent eight months 21 and three weeks, another four months at the MDC, he has been 22 seriously punished for his actions in 2020 and 2021, and now I 23 ask the Court to give him the opportunity to go back to the 24 space and the people who do mourn his absence, who do love him, 25 and who he loves and he has supported for several years, not in

0185e1S

1 my own words, in my own opinion, but in the words and opinions
2 of those very community members.

3 THE COURT: All right. Well, let me hear from 4 Ms. Jimenez.

5 MS. BAHARANYI: One moment, your Honor. Logistically, 6 Judge, I should have asked if you would you like for her to 7 stand at the podium?

8 THE COURT: Yes.

9 MS. JIMENEZ: Good afternoon.

10 THE COURT: Good afternoon.

11 MS. JIMENEZ: Thank you for giving me the opportunity 12 to speak this afternoon.

13 My name is Jacqueline Jimenez. I have known Lucha for 14 most of his life. We have been neighbors in the same 15 community, the same building, watched him grow up. I am a 16 little older than he is so he grew up mostly with my son and a 17 lot of the other youth in the building.

18 I am currently working in social services, I am
19 pursuing a masters in social work in grad school at Hunter
20 College, and I currently volunteer with a friend who has a 21 foundation called Uplife, which I intend to involve Lucha in 22 when he does come home. We service the community by giving out 23 food, back to school events for children, just a number of 24 things.

25 I guess my reason for wanting to talk is to, I guess,

0185e1S

1 help you see something beyond what you are reading on paper.
2 And I am hearing what you are saying, I am trying to digest
3 what you are saying but I feel like it is important for you to 4 know that who you are seeing here is not a violent man. And,
5 you know, you spoke of people's acts and how they affect the 6 family and the people that they love and you are right, yes, it
7 has affected us all deeply, but I don't think we consider 8 ourselves victims of his crime, we just -- you know, he made 9 mistakes and we still love him even though he made those 10 mistakes. But beyond the mistakes, he is a man with many 11 different facets. He helps the community, he is passionate, 12 not violent. He is always, you see him around the community, 13 he's helping somebody, helping unload boxes at a store or 14 helping someone paint their apartment, helping as -- cliché as 15 it sounds -- helping the old lady across the street and with 16 her bags. Like, you can always find him in a heated 17 conversation, in a debate, but positive things. You know?
18 Like telling children to go back to school. Come off the 19 corner, let's go play basketball at our local park.

20 You know, from myself, aside from seeing him grow up,
21 he was always involved in sports, he was an athlete. We have a
22 common love of boxing and, most recently, I am really grateful
23 for him because he helped my son go through a very challenging
24 time. My son is one of the people that wrote letters, his name
25 is Donald, and he helped him through a very challenging time.

0185e1S

1 He was the guy that came and knocked on my door every single 2 morning to make my son get up out of bed and go play basketball
3 or do some type of activity.

4 So, I don't know. I just -- I don't know if I can say
5 enough about him but I just really would like you to maybe 6 reflect a little bit more on the fact that he is not a violent 7 person, he is not the words that you -- the charges that are 8 being brought upon him. He is more than that. We are all more 9 than our mistakes. You know? We are not just -- we are not 10 just our mistakes, we are more than that, and we deserve the 11 opportunity to redeem ourselves and I feel like he has shown 12 that during his time after being incarcerated.

13 While he has been home I have spent many hours talking 14 to him about his plans and his life. I see how he is with his 15 child. I don't consider myself a victim of his crime, I am 16 honored to know him as a person. I think anyone who knows him
17 is deeply affected by him in a positive way, regardless if you
18 agree with his opinions, to say the least. You know, I don't 19 have to agree with him to know that he is a thinker, he is a 20 good man, and he is brave to go against the grain of things 21 that maybe people don't normally speak about.

22 Do you have any questions for me?

23 THE COURT: No. It is very helpful and I much 24 appreciate hearing from you.

25 MS. JIMENEZ: Thank you for your time.

0185e1S

1 THE COURT: Thank you.

2 MS. BAHARANYI: Thank you, Ms. Jimenez.

3 Your Honor, thank you for giving us that opportunity
4 for having someone from his community address the Court. And I
5 will close with this: He is facing the harshest of conditions
6 now. As the Court is aware from the exhibit we provided 7 showing Judge Furman's latest order about the conditions at 8 MDC, this has been his reality, a space where he isn't 9 connected to his community. He can rarely, if ever, speak to 10 his family. His ability to practice his religion has been 11 severely limited because of the chaos at the MDC Brooklyn. And 12 this, coupled with the significant time he spent in 13 Massachusetts and the additional time he faces because he has 14 to go and face the resolution of those charges and faces 15 another two to four years, but all of that together is more 16 than sufficient punishment with the request that we have made
17 for five months, especially for someone who is not the gun
18 trafficker in this scenario. He is not someone who obstructed 19 justice. And he is someone who has shown he can abide by the 20 law.

21 THE COURT: Thank you very much.

22 Let me hear from the government.

23 MS. NICOLAS: Thank you, your Honor.

24 Defense counsel referred to the heart of the Second 25 Amendment and I want to be really clear about what the heart of

0185e1S

1 the Second Amendment is and why that is not what we saw here.
2 The heart of the Second Amendment is lawfully obtaining a
3 firearm to have in your own home for your own protection. It
4 is not unlawfully obtaining multiple firearms, so that in one
5 instance you can stand on the street with the gun in the same
6 bag as your personal use narcotics and on another occasion 7 transport that firearm with your militia on the way up to some 8 kind of unregulated land in Maine that you are going to go fire 9 off live rounds on for whatever purpose that is.

10 What the defendant did is not the heart of the Second 11 Amendment, he is not being punished because of his words. He 12 was charged with crimes because there are federal regulations, 13 there are federal laws that governs the way in which firearms
14 are sold and possessed and regulated to keep everyone safe.
15 They're not just laws that exist for fun, they're not 16 frivolous, they're not -- you know, the defendant referred to 17 them as mandates and legalities and all that other stuff. That 18 could not be further from the truth. They exist because 19 they're important. Because without people like the defendant, 20 there is no way to lawfully get a firearm in New York City.
21 The defendant invited those guns into the same community that 22 he is standing here today telling us he cares so deeply about.
23 That's reality. This is not a man who walked into a gun store
24 and made some kind of administrative mistake and accidentally 25 got a gun.

0185e1S

1 The jury found he willfully violated the law -- 2 willfully -- violated the law. And I think part of the 3 timeline here is pretty disturbing and one we need to keep in 4 the forefront of our mind when we talk about specific 5 deterrence and the sincerity of any kind of acceptance of 6 responsibility that the defendant might have now and that is 7 the timeline from the Bronx arrest to the Massachusetts arrest.

8 The defendant gets arrested by the NYPD possessing a 9 firearm in the Bronx. At the time of that arrest he is told 10 you need a permit for this. He is told this is not something 11 you can do. And he tells the officers, sorry, disagree, I get 12 to decide what laws apply to me, I don't need it, I don't need 13 a permit, a permit is permission, I don't need permission.

14 Two weeks later he is with a convoy in Massachusetts;
15 it is a two-car convoy. It is a convoy. It is guys dressed
16 like they're going into battle and they're not carrying rubber 17 bullets, they're carrying thousands of rounds of real 18 ammunition, over 20 magazines, run magazines, with huge 19 capacities; semi-automatic long gun rifles, of which the 20 defendant was wearing one and at another point holding another.

21 He didn't make a single mistake on a form. That is 22 not what we are talking about. He didn't make a single mistake
23 when he got a gun from someone. He made the same, quote 24 unquote, mistake over and over and over again because he 25 decided he didn't want to abide by laws that he didn't like.

0185e1S

1 That is not how society works. There is of course of general
2 deterrence issue here. There is a specific deterrence issue 3 here. This defendant has made clear these laws don't apply to 4 him, he is not going to do it.

5 I also want to talk about COVID for a second because,
6 again, timing is important.

7 While we are supposed to be hearing about COVID being 8 difficult and making everyone's lives difficult and there is no 9 denying that was reality, we all lived it, the defendant was 10 loading up his convoy with his friends to go drive to Maine to 11 go shoot some guns. He was moving interstate, freely, on 4th 12 of July weekend, while we are supposed to think that he was 13 desperate and this was a mistake that he made out of 14 desperation during COVID. The reality is quite clear, he was 15 getting guns to do whatever he wanted because that's how he 16 views the law, it doesn't apply to him.

17 That's why gun ranges exist. That's another thing I
18 heard. This wasn't a gun range. This wasn't harmless, 19 innocent activity. This defendant invited guns into his 20 community, he did it over and over again when he knew what he 21 was doing was wrong, your Honor, and for that reason a 22 substantial period of incarceration is appropriate here.

23 THE COURT: Let me ask you one more particularized
24 question which is should I give him, in your view, a credit, 25 since it won't be credited as a technical matter, for the time

0185e1S

1 he spent in jail in Massachusetts as opposed to time he spent 2 here which will be credited?

3 MS. NICOLAS: I certainly think that's a relevant 4 3553(a) factor for your Honor. What I will say about that is 5 the defendant's pretrial detention in Massachusetts was also, 6 in part, predicated on his refusal to identify himself, his 7 refusal to comply with booking procedures. So, I do think that 8 that pretrial detention took, in effect, factors that are not 9 relevant to what we are here for today.

10 I will also note he is getting ready to stand trial in 11 February on that Massachusetts case which, I imagine, will be 12 putting before the judge a lot more than was put before the 13 Court here as it related to the details of that traffic stop.
14 So while it is relevant, your Honor, I don't think it is 15 tremendously mitigating.

16 THE COURT: Let me hear from defense counsel and then 17 from the defendant, if he wishes to be heard.

18 MS. BAHARANYI: Thank you, your Honor. Just briefly.

19 The government's very, very impassioned speech here
20 feels misplaced. If this were a conversation, a sentencing 21 that were taking place after his arrest in 2021, fair game;
22 there needs to be punishment, there needs to be consequence, 23 there is a need for specific and general deterrence. But, in 24 fact, we are having this conversation about appropriate 25 punishment after he has already been seriously and sufficiently

0185e1S

1 punished, your Honor, and that's what has been lost sight of.
2 We are having this conversation about whether jail is necessary 3 to course correct or correct his conduct in the future after 4 jail has already been imposed in his life and after it has 5 already, in fact, changed his conduct and changed his actions.

6 THE COURT: Well, of course that is highly relevant to 7 one factor, namely specific deterrence. It doesn't really go 8 to most of the other factors.

9 MS. BAHARANYI: Your Honor, I do think it speaks to 10 general deterrence as well. The credibility of the system is 11 not just about whether people are punished for doing bad 12 things, for breaking the law, but it's about whether that 13 punishment is in fact proportional. That's how it has any 14 credence, any credibility with any community that might learn
15 about this case. And if the Court were to impose --

16 THE COURT: I don't know how you come to that. It is 17 rare that anyone who is considering a future crime gets into 18 detailed analysis of why Mr. Jones received X months and 19 Mr. Smith received Y months. What is relevant for someone who 20 is thinking about committing a crime is, oh, the people who 21 committed that crime got serious time. I really think it is -- 22 I don't know of anywhere in the criminological literature where 23 it has been shown that defendants who are considering future 24 crimes -- that's what general deterrence is all about -- get 25 into an analysis of, oh, he got a lower sentence but that was

0185e1S

1 because he had learned his lesson or anything like that. That 2 is highly relevant for specific deterrence but I don't see how 3 it is relevant for general deterrence.

4 MS. BAHARANYI: Your Honor, if we are focusing on 5 statistics then, truly, what has been proven to be most 6 effective or effective when it comes to general deterrence 7 isn't at all the length or severity of punishment that someone 8 received, but is, in fact, the fact that someone has been 9 arrest and about been punished.

10 THE COURT: That's the biggest factor but that is only 11 factor. That factor we have known for about a hundred years, 12 well-documented, and I agree with you, that's the single most 13 established factor in general deterrence but it is, by far, 14 from the only factor.

15 MS. BAHARANYI: I think if we are to assume that if we 16 step beyond what has been proven in the science and we are now 17 a little bit speculating on what will affect the community and 18 what they will believe or how they will be affected by 19 someone's sentence, then I do think it is completely fair to 20 believe the community, like the community here, will have the 21 capacity to understand the difference between excessive 22 punishment and the right punishment, just punishment.

23 THE COURT: All right.

24 MS. BAHARANYI: And what we have asked for, your 25 Honor, truly is the just punishment given the totality of the

0185e1S

1 circumstances of his overall punishment here during COVID, in 2 MDC when it is at its worse. Anything beyond the five months I
3 have asked would be beyond what is necessary and no longer
4 carries the deterrent weight or effect that I believe the Court 5 is concerned about.

6 THE COURT: Let me hear from the defendant, if he 7 wishes to be heard.

8 MS. BAHARANYI: Your Honor has received a letter from 9 Lucha and he does not wish to make any further statements
10 beyond what he provided to the Court in his letter.

11 THE COURT: OK. That's fine.

12 So, on the one hand I think I take his criminal 13 activity to be considerably more serious than the defense is 14 arguing. I think the government is absolutely right and,
15 indeed, the jury found that this defendant intentionally, 16 willfully engaged in this misconduct, blatantly in violation of 17 the law and as part of an ongoing relation with others who were 18 doing the same. And where, at the end of the story, I think 19 the factors under Section 3553(a) would all counsel a sentence 20 not unlike the two years I gave to Mr. Vereen, there are, 21 however, I think two mitigating factors that warrant a lesser 22 sentence. The first is the time he has already spent in jail
23 in Massachusetts, which will not be credited against this 24 sentence unlike the time he spent in federal custody but which 25 is nevertheless real punishment for activity very closely

0185e1S

1 related to what the defendant stands accused of here. Not 2 identical, but related. And while I am not particularly 3 convinced that this defendant learned his lesson from that 4 incarceration, I think that is much too simplistic when you are 5 dealing with someone as complicated as this defendant. But I 6 think some credit should be given for that.

7 The much bigger factor is the numerous people, many of 8 whom are here today, who have supported him and told me of his 9 good side, of his good nature. My own view of sentencing, 10 which is part of Section 3553(a) but seems to me to be 11 especially important, is that a person at this moment of 12 sentence be judged by the entire character he has demonstrated 13 and not just by his mistakes. I thought Ms. Jimenez made that 14 point quite eloquently and the fact that there are all of these 15 people who have not only written to me but are here today to 16 say that this defendant has a good side that they recognize, 17 that they've experienced, that they have seen, is quite 18 important to me.

19 So I'm going to give a lesser sentence than the one I
20 contemplated. It is nothing like the sentence that defense
21 counsel asks for because I think that grossly understates both 22 the crime itself, its potential for violence, and the 23 defendant's involvement with a different kind of community, if 24 you will, a community dedicated to the illegal possession of 25 guns and the seeming preparation to use them.

0185e1S

1 Putting all of these factors together, the sentence of 2 the Court is that the defendant is sentenced to 16 months in 3 prison, that's on each count, concurrently, and similarly, to 4 three years of supervised release, concurrent on each of the 5 counts.

6 No fine will be imposed because the Court makes a 7 finding that this defendant is not in a position to pay any 8 meaningful fine now or in the foreseeable future. There is, 9 however, a $200 mandatory special assessment that must be paid.

10 The terms of supervised release are, first, mandatory 11 conditions that the defendant not commit any other federal, 12 state or local crime; that he not unlawfully possess a 13 controlled substance; that he cooperate in the collection of 14 DNA; and that within 15 days of his release from prison he 15 submit to one drug test to be followed by two periodic drug 16 tests thereafter, as determined by the probation officer.

17 There will also be imposed standard conditions 1 18 through 12. They appear on the face of the judgment but also 19 will be gone over with the defendant when he begins his period 20 of supervised release, which he will do by reporting to the 21 nearest probation office within 72 hours of his release from 22 prison.

23 And finally, there are the special conditions:

24 First, the defendant will participate in an outpatient 25 treatment program for drugs and alcohol under standard terms;

0185e1S

1 and secondly, that he will be supervised by the district of his 2 residence.

3 Now, before I advise the defendant of his right of 4 appeal, let me ask counsel for both sides whether there is 5 anything else we needed to take up.

6 Anything further from the government?

7 MS. NICOLAS: Your Honor, just a couple of 8 housekeeping matters.

9 First, we would ask that the Court adopt the factual
10 findings that are set forth in the presentence report. There 11 is no objections from the government on that.

12 THE COURT: Yes. I adopt the presentence report other 13 than I disagree with the calculation, as previously indicated.

14 MS. NICOLAS: The other matter, your Honor, is that 15 the government would ask that the forfeiture order be made 16 final as to the firearms in the case. There is no money 17 judgment but it is the firearm.

18 THE COURT: Any objection to that?

19 MS. BAHARANYI: No objection, your Honor.

20 THE COURT: So ordered.

21 MS. BAHARANYI: Your Honor, on the special conditions, 22 probation recommended outpatient drug treatment. I don't 23 believe that is an appropriate condition in this case because 24 Lucha El has no history of abusing illegal substances. The one 25 reason for this recommendation is because of his prior use of

0185e1S

1 marijuana and that was before he was on pretrial supervision.

2 THE COURT: I wondered about that myself. I will 3 withdraw that special condition.

4 MS. BAHARANYI: Thank you. That's all on our behalf.

5 THE COURT: Did you want to make any recommendation as 6 to where he should be housed?

7 MS. BAHARANYI: Absolutely, your Honor. We do ask he 8 be housed as close to New York City as possible.

9 THE COURT: I will make that recommendation. I can't 10 order it, as you know, but I will recommend it.

11 So, speaking to the defendant, let me advise you, 12 first, that you have a right to appeal the sentence.

13 Do you understand that?

14 THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

15 THE COURT: If you can't afford counsel for the 16 appeal, the Court will appoint one for you free of charge.

17 Do you understand that?

18 THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

19 THE COURT: That concludes --

20 MS. NICOLAS: Your Honor, the government now moves to 21 dismiss the underlying indictment.

22 THE COURT: Yes. Thank you very much. That motion is 23 granted.

24 Very good. Thanks a lot.

25 o0o
